11	The poem "Poetry" is a beautiful poem by Pablo Neruda. In the beginning itself the poet admits that he did not go anywhere in search of poetry. Instead, the poetry itself came to him quite naturally. He again says that he did not know from where the poetry came to him. The spark of poetry started in his soul and the poet try to decipher it in his own way. The poet owns up/admits that he had only a vague idea when he was writing the first line. He even goes to extent that the first lines of the poetry were without any substance or they were pure nonsense. Suddenly he could realise that the skies were unfastened and open before him and he could see the distant planets palpitating plantations and perforated shadows with arrows and fire and flowers. The winding nights and the entire universe came to be visible before eyes. The poet uses paradox such as " pure wisdom of someone who knows nothing " and alliteration like " Planets, palpitating plantations" etc., to make the poem more beautiful. The technique of personification is used when he says " Poetry arrived ". Here personification is efficiently used in the word	5

	Poetry. Examples of imagery can be seen “ The heaven unfastened and open, planets, palpitating plantations” shadow perforated the winging night, the universe etc.. The poem as such gives a beautiful image depicted by the poet using simple and short words. The poet brought the entire idea of the poem before the reader.
